

Reproductive Justice and Abortion

25 September, 2019 13:00-14:00
Palais des Nations Room XXIII

Reproductive justice focuses on the right to maintain bodily autonomy, to parent and not to parent in safe and healthy environments. It does so by supporting community processes to foster the material conditions that shift underlying social determinants of health, therefore creating meaningful choices. It is critical of the impact of criminalization of sexual and reproductive decisions on the safety and health of communities. It weaves the individual into the community and the local into the global. This side event builds up on the conversation on intersectionality as politics and practice that we had during our previous side event. By engaging with the framework of reproductive justice we continue to delve into intersectionality to show how it shapes our work in the context of the upcoming International Safe Abortion Day.

CART closed captioning in English. French and Spanish interpretation will be provided. The side event will be livestreamed on the SRI Facebook page www.facebook.com/SRIinitiative. If you require additional disability-related accommodations, please contact juan@srigeneva.com

CONFIRMED SPEAKERS

Catalina Devandas, UN Special Rapporteur on the rights of persons with disabilities

Paola Salwan Daher, Center for Reproductive Rights

Urszula Grycuk, Federation for Women and Family Planning

Anthea Taderera, Coalition of African Lesbians

Join the conversation using the hashtags:

#ReproductiveJustice #LetsTalkAbortion #Sept28 #MyAbortionMyHealth

